ABSTRACT

In this article some mistakes that we ought to keep distance from, and how to find out them, are penned. The only thing that is required is only reading closely and more carefully as it highly will help you achieve your goal in a short period and keep you from making these harmful mistakes.

Keywords: mistake, learning, language, teaching, methodology, advice.

INTRODUCTION

It is well known that a huge number of people are learning English, however a minority of them manage to speak it, while the remaining ones still come across with inevitable issues like speaking barriers or fear of making mistakes. Even though they spent a large number of their time in learning English, they unlikely pick it up. Having learned English for several years sometimes is not sufficient to acquire it as there might appear some popular mistakes that we unconsciously make and without paying attention we just skip them. Consequently, in the culmination we make for ourselves a colossal unpleasant surprise.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

So it come out that by avoiding mistaking we will be almost close to our destination as they probably hold us back from going ahead.

1) The first and foremost mistake is having a weak will to learn English. By this I'm going to say that you may witness people who solely spend couple hours but call for an incredible demand of achieving an accomplishment in this sphere. As far as I know that to learn English perfectly and speak fluently you have got to work at least six hours a day. But it is true that working more than 5 hours per day is extremely tough and demanding, plus you undeniably get deathly bored because of slow progress. And this is the first reason why students in no time give up learning English or may not study by hard due to the lack of strong will. Plus in this technological era it is implausible to stay away from electronic gadgets such as smart phones or laptops. Noticeably the Internet is not stopping butting out to our life, which likely makes us so lazy, as a result you unlikely will desire to study. So in order to maintain doing success we ought to study hard willingly but not reluctantly.

2) As it is mentioned above we are being so addicted to technologies which make us couch potatoes and pessimists. Consequently we are becoming as a fault lazy and we do not want even just to open our preferred books in order to read a couple words in it. Moreover we are considered as really hectic people who hardly find sufficient time to hang out with our buddies or spend time to our leisure activities due to the fact that we always mind our business. And exactly this is the second common mistake that we make. It is to say that we ought to manage our time in order to spare both to work and self-study. However, nowadays it is devilishly hard to complete. We are being used to work from dusk till dawn without paying attention on our further plans that we have being arranged for years. And all of a sudden we remember them and it will be already late to correct. So despite of the fact that we have less time to spend on learning, we perhaps should have something which constantly reminds us about our dreams.

People each continuously work and this not only effects to their physical health but also to their mental states as they are maybe spending their valuable time in just earning but not acquiring knowledge. Every day from early morning we start to dress up and leave as early as possible in order not to appear in traffic jam. Instead of doing morning meditation or reading books they collect all essential documents and prepare necessary things, instead of learning some new words they prefer sleeping a few minutes again, instead of listening couple audios in English they feel like to listen something slow which helps their mind refresh. In this hard situation all we need to do is make a reasonable decision on our own which will not in future disturb our further plans.

All in all this mistake is sometimes called as fatal mistake as not only a small group of people are suffering but almost nine tenth of those who went off their business is always complaining because of not having enough time to learn something new. So the solution is just time management.

3) Feeling terrified when speaking English is accepted as the third foolish mistake. We know that those people who have recently started learning English, likely have speaking barrier, so they prefer not talking with anyone in order not to feel embarrassed because of having grammatical errors. This naturally holds them back from development, as it is truly said that only by making mistakes we develop our knowledge. However you may come across with such people who always feel embarrassed to be censured. However, as far as I know being appraised is just what others think about you. You ought to accept it and carry on studying. I am obliged to apprise you that all you are doing, even though it is considered as unfruitful, are useful for you and so you should keep on going until you do not reach your fixed plans. Their opinions must not effect on your process of studying, because being effected is the worst thing in the universe which probably lack you from motivation in what you are doing. Feeling fear of making mistakes is only harmful for yourself not for those who continuously call your works as monkey business. You will be top dog when you finish your demanding works successfully without feeling any fear. But it is not a gift that is lying on the ground and all you need to do is just picking it up. To achieve it you must work on yourself for a long period. Try to speak whenever you are in a big company of those who used to speak English. Do not pay attention on accuracy as people prefer fluency much. So by the time you learn to speak fluently, the accuracy will be presented to you to be acquired effortlessly.

Plus they used to assert that by working hard if they can get nowhere it means that all they have been doing is nonsense. And these kind of negative and weak opinions always follow them all their life which never let them reveal their capacity or their hidden talent. Shortly saying fear is what makes us unmotivated and always felt sorry of being such miserable and useless.

4) At present it is genuinely challenging to encounter those who have life-long ambitions. I thing I do need to clarify this fact as it is crystal clear that those who are studying at colleges or universities they are wasting their time and nothing at all. Instead of reading books especially boys prefer talking with appealing girls even though it does not provide them with background. Unfortunately this is the next mistake that individuals make. They do not have any clue how ineffable having dreams is. If we have something that we want to materialize in the future it probably motivates us to go forward without looking back. Meantime, people, as I said above, do not have a particular plan for the future, so they lead nefarious lifestyle. They keen on living life without plans as it is rather breeze than having many more plans which demand to be completed in a fixed timeline. So it seems to them a complete waste of time which leads to nowhere, while having future plans is the only way to bright future. Why? It is not my sayings, it is approved by psychologists that if we want to feel the sense of accomplishments we should complete all fixed plans as soon as possible. Only by this we really feel that we are developing comprehensively.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

However as we used to chill out with scrum teams we unlikely be able to make business plans, cause they have already managed to spoil our mind with junk ideas like wasting time in surfing Internet or chatting occasionally with our e-friends. We know that hanging out with our chums is rather easy than all day sitting and planning for the future. We always arrange a daily meeting with our girlfriends or vice versa just to spend time, even though all of these are permanent as by the time we finish college or university we probably forget them, and we totally start a new life being wholly new person. A person who does not have any plans for the future and even does not know how to set off his business. So I must say to you that you should not care for others opinion about your boring lifestyle. You ought to be always ignorant person who are stubborn on his particular aims.

CONCLUSION

To sum up all the mistakes that I mentioned above are in fact the most common ones that majority of people used to make unknowingly. However as I apprised you with them then you have got to prevent yourself from making them. I'm informed that you all are learning by hard and spending your whole day on studying, that's why I'm obliged to message you regarding these foolish mistakes that hold you back.

Shortly saying the best way of making progress without mistaking is just doing what you think is appropriate for you regardless of type of method that you opt for. Paying attention on others' opinion is devilishly bad habit as people may tell whatever comes to their mind unthinkingly. Even though their demeanor is exceedingly awful you might just ignore them and carry on what you have been doing.

From my own experience I bravely can say that these mistakes held many more people, including me, back. Thankfully I opened my eyes in time and now I almost mastered English thanks to my patience and tolerance to difficulties.
